6.1.1 Vision and mission which are reflected in the in its academic and administrative governance.

Response:

Narayana College of Nursing believes in research, education and service as the foundation for professional nursing practice, and thereby recognizes and addresses the health care needs of the global society, communities and their members. Professional nursing education includes a humanistic orientation and dedication to fundamental ethical principles.

The institution's administration is democratic and participatory involving the active participation of stakeholders. The Governing body had granted authority to the Principal, who further delegates it to the IQAC Coordinator, Heads of the departments, Heads of various committees and staff representatives from higher decision-making bodies are largely in charge of creating and enforcing institutional policies.

A perspective/strategic plan is prepared to aid a methodical, well-planned, and structured functioning of the institution. All the stakeholders play a vital role in attaining the college's vision and mission and actively participate in decision-making. Management of the disciplinary units are done by heads of the departments with administrative and academic autonomy. The Governing body meets once in a year to take appropriate actions based on the analyzed feedback of the previous year. Institutional policies are revised as needed, approved by all statutory bodies and finally circulated amongst all the stakeholders via the college website and notices.
