Dr.Indira, Principal of Narayana College of nursing has unfolded the theme and talked on patient safety in health care settings.

Work place related health impairments, injuries and illnesses cause great human suffering and incur high costs, both for those affected and for the society as a whole. Occupational health and safety measures and health promotion in work places are aimed at preventing these hazards. In addition to protecting workers from harm, this conference wants to show the managers in the health care system how to achieve a health promotion in hospital or facility according to the WHO definition of health, as a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being. This conference provides such health as well as empowers the individuals to use their own health potential to deal successfully with the demands of their environment.

OBJECTIVES:

General Objectives:

- To update the knowledge regarding occupational hazards in hospitals.
- To develop skills in maintenance of safe environment.
- To develop the theoretical knowledge with safe practices.

Specific Objectives:

- To update scientific knowledge and improve the skills regarding prevention of occupational hazards in emergency and triage setting.
- To address the issues related to work place violence.
- To impart knowledge regarding occupational hazards in oncology setting.
- To explain about the occupational hazards in obstetrics and gynaecology settings.
